December 15, 2011

Can I take your order, please?

Thumb up; away from my body; open, close

A Christmas rectangle!

Dear Families,

Another year has come and practically gone. It certainly has been a year of memories already in the preschool classroom. The threes are becoming more aware of each other and the expectations of the school environment. We are better at using our words, and we can even sometimes walk in a line. It is one of the joys of early childhood to see amazing changes in a relatively short period of time. Thank you for your trust in me and for sharing the precious gift of your children. May peace and joy be yours as you celebrate the coming of our Savior, Jesus Christ.

CHRISTMAS PARTY

We are excited about the Christmas party on Tuesday, Dec. 20 and are hoping many will join us for the celebration.

HAPPY BIRTHDAY!

We celebrated Michael's fourth birthday. God bless you!

I CAN SMILE / RECTANGLES

The threes learned that God made us to be happy! When we smile we show our happiness to others, and our smiles make them happy, too. We also learned that Jesus made many people happy with his kindness and healing. The children shared many things that make them smile.

The preschoolers enjoyed investigating rectangles and especially painting them at the easel.

Oh dear, they'll be here any minute!

JESUS' BIRTHDAY!

Yes, Christmas is all about Baby Jesus' birth. We have spent the past couple of weeks exploring the Nativity, hands on. The threes know each piece and today used the pieces to help Mrs. Couture tell the Christmas Story. They did a very nice job! We have made Santas and angels from different shaped paper and used simple objects to make a manger for Baby Jesus. "Night, night Baby Jesus."

It's almost as big as me!
